Non profit assoc purchase one or two homes and subdivide into small apartments as a demonstration of the model. (Like the airb&b's popping up in Kingstown for example, but to meet local needs. We would need City facilitation for this to work.)

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Not sure, I need to learn more about this approach before I could answer either way.

Q15. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies? YES

Q16. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.

I like the porkchop lot plan, to sever and sell parts of lots. It would also be great if it were easier to build a second apartment in the same house, or a coach house on the same lot to rent out (not sever and sell). In general, I think the City needs more geared-to-income housing (not just affordable housing). I am inspired by the recent re-development of Regent Park in Toronto. In general, I think Kingston needs more social housing, preferably as a few units owned by a municipally-controlled social housing corp, mixed in with a larger development (to have mixed-income housing, rather than a large social housing project).

Q17. Do you OWN rental property? NO

Q18. What type?

Q19. Have you ever considered creating rental opportunities in your home with a secondary suite or carriage house? YES

Q20. Do you have any ideas for CREATIVE PARTNERSHIPS that could increase the supply of affordable housing? (Examples: faith-based organization with land to re-purpose, business with empty retail space, etc)

On city owned land, convert 2 attached Sea Cans into housing. Contract with prisons to do conversions. Inmates would benefit from skills training, Cans are 40 x 8 ft=320 sq ft so two would be approx 600 sq ft. Small but better than sleeping on the streets. Property protection from government to recover costs associated with damage caused by a tenant. For many years, I made property available at very low rent to community members with limited income. When one tenant caused thousands in damages, my only recourse was to submit an insurance claim. That transaction would increase my insurance rates increasing my operating costs. I sold the property.

Q21. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

The City of Kingston needs to provide easier and more cost effective options for small and medium developers / landowners to build multi residential units on current vacant lots in the central part of Kingston - in particular, King's Town and Williamsville districts. Before anything can be done, the city needs to finalize the amalgamated zoning bylaws, which currently restrict this type of development. This development should not be geared to undergrad students, but rather small families, couples and young professionals who want to live in central Kingston.
Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in my neighbourhood.

Q15. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies?

YES

Q16. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.

In Berlin there is a tiny house community where all of the houses had a small garden as well. Very beautiful, energy efficient and affordable housing. I have heard that allowing in filling (coach houses, loft housing above garages, small houses in back yards) has worked well in other cities as well.

Q21. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.
  My in-laws lived in Brandon Manitoba, when they reached an age to move to an apartment they went into what I would call a Co-op, they call it a life lease. They had to put up an "entrance" fee of between $10,000 to $55,000 and have a reduced rent.

<td>Explore shared values beyond “MAKING MONEY or PROVIDING JOBS” to shift developers from perceiving that their role is ...simply making a profit off of tenants, or hiring staff. If they could use their expertise to help tenants grow cooperatives, with the possibility of renting-to-own, they would likely notice fewer property damages, less hostility, etc (people need to feel invested in the places they live or they will not respect the property IE QUEENS STUDENTS having a terrible reputation for damaging homes). Then, the Abramskys and Springers and Patrys could gain increased job satisfaction because they would be actually helping people secure long term housing. AND they could make money/hire staff. Another suggestion is to provide social workers to landlords who are renting to tenants experiencing addictions. It is absolutely a horrifying experience for many people to live in social housing or housing first properties, because they have no supports.</td>

Q20. Do you have any ideas for CREATIVE PARTNERSHIPS that could increase the supply of affordable housing? (Examples: faith-based organization with land to re-purpose, business with empty retail space, etc)

NO

Q21. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

not answered

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in my neighbourhood.

Q23. Please add any comments you wish to communicate to the Housing Task Force regarding your experience with Kingston’s housing situation, how it affects your life and work, and any suggestions you have for increasing the supply of housing. If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

YES

Q21. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

I think we should learn from Japan that build condo with smaller rooms. The younger generation like to have their own space rather than sharing rooms. The smaller room can reduce the rental as well.

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

No, I do not support intensification of my neighborhood.

Q16. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.

We would like to purchase a 3 bedroom condo downtown with a high walk score. We would like to be “car free” as one of your councillors regularly boasts. They are virtually impossible to find and there is nothing being built with the exception of ugly student housing on Princess St. If a unit does come on the market they usually have multiple bidders which drives the price through the roof. There is a huge demand and no supply. The remedy should not be too difficult to figure out.

Many seniors live in 2-3 bedroom houses and are wanting to downsize and have their current houses occupied by young families. They/we want to share housing with other seniors where each resident has a room, bathroom and office and they/we have shared living room, dining room, kitchen and garden along with shared responsibilities for upkeep. Some legal agreements would need to be put in place. Some new buildings to accommodate this would be great - and could free up a considerable amount of housing in the city.

Q20. Do you have any ideas for CREATIVE PARTNERSHIPS that could increase the supply of affordable housing? (Examples: faith-based organization with land to re-purpose, business with empty retail space, etc)
YES

Q21. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

1. The land East of Sir John A MacDonald and North of Princess is a bizarre indeterminate space. I think, given its proximity to amenities like the Kingston Centre, you could construct a community where you have space for some farming, and a collection of tiny houses. Folks who want to live on less, but are contributors and developers of their spaces, not consumers. 2. Less restrictive zoning. Suburban streets are choking with cars, but that’s because they have to drive! If businesses could exist inside the suburb, folks would not have to drive so much. 3. More relaxed driveway bylaws. In my area (Hillendale) many homes have basement apartments. None of them are legal, but homeowners aren't incentivized to change that because of the cost (and the market doesn't ask for legal, just for safe and comfortable.) Unfortunately, that also means your one lane (max) driveway needs to service two units, each with multiple drivers. There’s a “three bedroom” that’s had 6 students in it, because the basement was converted to a three bedroom unit as well. So while the city doesn’t see a problem, the streets are lined with cars, which can be a safety issue for kids and cyclists.

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in my neighbourhood.

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes, semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Not sure, I need to learn more about this approach before I could answer either way.

Q23. Please add any comments you wish to communicate to the Housing Task Force regarding your experience with Kingston’s housing situation, how it affects your life and work, and any suggestions you have for increasing the supply of housing. Q15. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies?
   YES

Q16. Please DESCRIIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.
   We visit Vancouver often. They have a number of laneway houses - however, they are expensive. Many houses have suites in the basement - some are Airbnb's which now are being strictly regulated - the City now forbids homeowners from renting them as Airbnb's to increase housing stock - BUT some homeowners who have these units simply remove them (to use for family members who come to visit). They don't appreciate being told what they can and cannot do with their house.

Q21. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.
   Maybe work together with private sector like Homestead Land Holdings or encourage builders to build secondary suites or coach houses into their plans for new housing - do not convert houses in established neighbourhoods - infrastructure, parking and neighbourhood character cannot support it.

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?
   No, I do not support intensification of my neighborhood.

Q20. Do you have any ideas for CREATIVE PARTNERSHIPS that could increase the supply of affordable housing? (Examples: faith-based organization with land to re-purpose, business with empty retail space, etc) YES

Q21. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact. They are many "empty" abandoned buildings in Kingston that have "tax owing" or due as such. Why can these eyesores not be turned into low income housing by refit the buildings into apartments and renting them instead of letting them decay.

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings? Not sure, I need to learn more about this approach before I could answer either way.

Q23. Please add any comments you wish to communicate to the Housing Task Force regarding your experience with Kingston's housing situation, how it affects your life and work, and any suggestions you have for increasing the supply of housing. If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data. not answered

This doesn’t affect me, but the graduate students I work with are finding it more challenging to find affordable housing for them and their families. This is even harder for those who are not funding eligible or as an international student they don’t have the same support but are encouraged not to pay out deposits on rental properties until they are here so they don’t fall for the scams. The public transport I believe in Kingston is good, so more housing along major bus routes could help. Our international students also need to find community to support each other as they don’t have extended family here.

I will be 60 yrs old. I have been struggling financially for years and always need to borrow from my savings to keep my home. I find the Kingston taxes extremely expensive. I am trying to find affordable condos with low maintenance fees as well as senior rentals where I would be in charge of my place and pay for what I use. I cannot afford places where it is 3500 + per month. I hope you will build affordable places for seniors soon. I also do not drink or smoke or gamble and cannot afford any outings. All my income goes to my home and expenses and food.

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes, semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in my neighbourhood.

Q23. Please add any comments you wish to communicate to the Housing Task Force regarding your experience with Kingston's housing situation, how it affects your life and work, and any suggestions you have for increasing the supply of housing. If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

My husband and I were lucky enough to find a small two-bedroom detached house with a backyard in April 2016. The price at the time ($1300) was an increase by $300 from our small two-bedroom apartment two blocks away, but with some budgeting it was affordable with our salaries (husband = secure salaried job; myself = PhD graduate student on limited funding income). We are leaving this house in August 2019 as my graduate studies are ending. When our property management company came to take photos to re-list the house, I learned that they were re-listing the house at $1800/month. WOW. That's almost a 40% increase in rent. We were astounded and if we were looking for this rental at this point, we would not be able to afford it. There is something wrong with the Kingston rental market. It's exclusionary and outrageously overpriced. The average PhD graduate student at Queen's gets a funding package of approx. 20K per year. Minus 8k in tuition… how are graduate students supposed to pay rent and utilities and feed themselves (and potentially dependants) on 12K a year? Simply put, they cannot.

Q24. Which would best describe your current primary residence?

Single-detached house

Q21. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

Partnerships between organizations such as social housing providers, post-secondary institutions and private developers to create mixed-use housing in locations that offer access to retail (e.g. groceries), access to public transit, and community organizations (e.g. schools). Prime example: The corner of Kingston Centre at Bath Rd. and Sir John A. MacDonald Blvd, which is currently an unused parking lot.

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings? Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in my neighbourhood.
Q23. If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

My experience moving to Kingston is that a majority of what would be affordable single family homes near downtown have been converted into multi-room student rentals. The cost of reconverting the house makes it impractical for it to be used as a family residence again.

Q21. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

I think that Queen's University needs to create a 'half-way house' of sorts that is available to students who are coming into Kingston from outside so that they are better able to navigate the housing market before being able to commit. I think this is particularly important for international students. I think that the City of Kingston could be doing more, with the university, to try and ensure that students who are coming from outside of the city have access to shorter rental options as well as the potential to sign contracts, etc from a distance.

There needs to be better integration with Municipal Social services and their financial allowances to make sure residents can afford to live in rental accommodation in Kingston.

There was this one time when the nuns asked the City of Kingston to create affordable housing units with the nunnery, but then the greasy real estate developers got their teeth sunk into the project and now that's basically been kiboshed.

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?
Not sure, I need to learn more about this approach before I could answer either way.

I was priced out of the city. I'm a grad student on a tight income, and when I heard my rent was going to be raised to well over $1000/month for a single bedroom, I knew that I wouldn't be able to afford it. It's a shame. I love Kingston, and in a less insane world it would be possible for students to live comfortably in the city that they study in. I opted to move to Ottawa to save on rent by living with my girlfriend, which takes all the money I would've spent at the grocery store, restaurants, and wherever else out of Kingston's economy.

<td>I do think that there needs to be support for more densification, yet I think if this is done, it must be done in a responsible manner that creates spaces that are actually liveable at an affordable price point. Obviously one of the big problems regarding rental units in Kingston is not only the supply but also the price, quality, problems with landlords and lack of comprehensive transit in case one is forced to rent further afield. Beyond increasing supply there should be serious effort on ensuring that housing is of quality and at affordable prices. Personally, I have currently being fighting off and on for the past couple year as our landlords trying to evict us from our current place since our rent is now low for our location and size of our place (although 4 years ago when we signed the lease, it was actually above average price). Although we were aware that the N12s that were being sent out were not valid due to the RTA and refused to leave, other tenants in our building were forced out and their apartments went for double the rent immediately after they vacated. It would be useful to have limits on how much a rent can be raised after a tenant leaves and not just while current tenants are still in the house. This would at least help prevent evictions in order to significantly increase rents. While rental prices have increased hugely over these 4 years, wages have stagnated. This has made it difficult to stay in neighbourhoods where one has developed connections. Given the current animosity with our landlords over our refusal to vacate, I would have preferred to move but there is no where in the area where we could afford a comparable rental. In my particular positions, since I have cold urticaria, I need to ensure that I am right on a bus route as well as close to work and groceries since I can only spend limited time outside in the winter. Specifically for this survey- when answering other there should be a place to explain- i.e.. I'm a student who also works part-time and that is not an option.</td>

I currently live in a five unit Plex the unit was sold to a new owner as of May 2019 he is currently kicked out two of the tenants stating that his son and father would be moving into the units which is not the case he has stated that I have 12 months to leave my residence and find a new home I pay 725+ Hydro for a two bedroom apartment I am a very loyal tenant and now I am in complete fear of not having a roof over my head because I cannot pay the rent that is posted in Kingston and I don’t think it’s fair that a 28-year-old you have to downsize and And rent a room at the same price that she’s paying for a two bedroom home to live on her own and be independent but independence is being taken away for me due to the housing crisis in Kingston I have went and applied for a mortgage I was told that I need to work more I work seven days a week and I am exhausted I cannot get ahead because of this community

Q21. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

Partnerships with ‘Owners’ (Springer etc.) of commercial zoned sites - (such as, Kingston Centre & Metro Downtown) with ‘Developers’ (Varsity etc.) to build vertically dense mixed use structures of shared zoning (commercial & residential) like Cadillac Fairview does with large shopping centres in Urban Centres that are cornered with massive vertical office or condo towers partnered with The City of Kingston who would arrange tax model and development fee models to encourage not only such developments but also a healthy complement of affordable housing for as long as possible (10+ years or longer). Opportunities for all parties to succeed together where they might not separately. Commercial land/mall/property owners gain value/investment and onsite customers that justifiy increases to commercial tenants with vertical density structures they do not have to construct themselves. Developers gain a large urban site to build upon that they do not have to purchase at current market rates that usually makes the project unfeasible needing a density of 30+ storeys. City gains a core urban site that delivers vertical density with expansive setbacks in prime transit and commercial areas with a blend of commercial and residential tax revenue where infrastructure already supports intensification. These are sites that will not develop the density themselves but with incentives could possible be a winning partnership for all concerned, including aging populations that want to be close to shopping like groceries & drugstores, libraries & fitness locations and other amenities found in the area. It may be other agencies and partners could also be attached to optimally deliver affordable housing.
Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in my neighbourhood.

Q23. Please add any comments you wish to communicate to the Housing Task Force regarding your experience with Kingston’s housing situation, how it affects your life and work, and any suggestions you have for increasing the supply of housing. If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

- we need to learn from other municipalities mistakes such as Toronto and other cities that have tried to podium their way to affordability - it hasn't worked - why not? Investor housing has been a major downside to affordability. How can we balance investment with housing as a right and an affordable right for all people - we need to recognize why cities like Vancouver, Calgary and others have developed the way they have and be mindful of what Kingston possesses as strengths and weaknesses and look for Kingston solutions intrinsic to our situation, such as KP, POH and P4W sites which could become a world class residential area like hidden gem areas of Richmond, Vancouver, Nanaimo or Victoria. How can we intention diversity in our various city areas and encourage uniqueness - a wash of the same everywhere would be a less interesting choice and based on successful other tourism focused cities a mistake -we need to get the post-secondary and institutional focuses correctly partnered as we move forward and ‘dump’ the past culture. The Queen’s Campus Master Plan rewrite must intention more responsibility on the institution than the university site itself. Other institutions and employers as well. The planning needs to be linked with real data and information about where people actually want to live and how they are experiencing the City. This links to active steps to discourage car-centric planning and design and encourage logical local choices because the housing is where it needs to be and in the density and variation of forms that it needs to be - enough with the shopping centres a 15-20 minute drive away. End the drive to the commercial locations and bring back strategic neighbourhood commercial to local area nodes and corridors. Then the demand and use for residential and commercial can be satisfied without a car and go vertical with the housing. If Kingston doesn't maximize the Portsmouth opportunities and density possibilities of the area from St. Lawrence College to West Campus area - what a shame. - we need to get over preserving all areas in the near main campus Queens area - there is such and inefficient land use in those overbuilt low density structures in the 4-6 blocks from the ARC building. Up-zone some of those areas especially northward right into Metro's huge site and go 10-20 stories if that's what the experts feel can be justified. - we need to go after these large parcels of land that sit unused - can you tax them heavier? Too many large interest are buying up the property and then maligning the growth of the City. Free up some of that land for sale and you could see more development - too hard to buy up lot by lot low density for developers - need to get them the large parcels. How do other cities encourage development of empty lots?

The Kingston Pen and Provincial Campus lands offer a unique opportunity to direct housing in a way that meets future needs. These lands have been publicly owned for generations. This is an opportunity for public and private housing models to be included in the upcoming development. Perhaps for senior housing, including assisted living.

Q16. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.

Several cities have similar policies but I currently work for the City of Hamilton and they have criteria within their Official Plan to regulate the demolition and conversion of rental units to condominium units. Their criteria are with regards to the rent levels of the units proposed to be demolished, the rental vacancy rate must be at or above 2% (some cities set it at 3%), and rental units have to be replaced if demolished. You can find these criteria here: https://d3fpflf1m7bbt3.cloudfront.net/sites/default/files/media/browser/2015-01-15/urbanhamiltonofficialplan-volume1-chapterb-communities-jan2019.pdf in section 3.2.5

Increased housing prices can drive homeowners to the rural area. Smaller more affordable units in the downtown would be a wise direction of development.

I purchased my single dwelling home to be away from rental units. Having said this, our neighbourhood does have rentals. It has in-law suites that are not safe or up to code. There is no sense of respect for the home. Makes our well kept Neighbourhood look like lack of pride & home ownership. The home is a place to rest your hat but no upkeep on property.

<td>Ultimately, affordability. RGI units need to be more available to those who fall into the $20,000 - $50,000 income bracket. The rental market price increase has created a very dangerous situation for renters. Landlords are realizing that they can get much more money per month out of their tenants and are trying to use unethical tactics to pressure tenants into paying more rent than allowed by the rental guidelines or are simply evicting tenants by using loopholes in the landlord tenant act. I have experienced this, but my landlord was unsuccessful in pressuring me to leave. I do not feel that all people faced with the same situation will be as stubborn as I was. A little about me: I am recently married, my wife and I both have full time jobs, we have three children, and one vehicle. And if we were to move from our current house to another house that would fit our family, we would not be able to. The rental housing market pricing has gone insane. The house that we rent now at 1731.00 per month is comparable to houses that are now renting for 2200.00 or more plus all utilities. There is such a shortage of multi room housing in Kingston that the prices have been driven up a ridiculous amount due to a lack of availability. Buying a house is just as unattainable at the moment as the housing market is suffering the same rise in pricing. Our plan is to wait another 5 years till all of our children are off to college and buy a small house outside Kingston where it is affordable.

Venezuela, Cuba, Vienna, all socialist and social states that ever existed offer models that you could follow. But you already know what to do. Just build more co-op housing as at 1338 Princess and more geared-to-income housing like in Compton Street instead of re-inventing the wheel. More housing paid for by higher taxes on you (caraco, Homestead). Fewer subsidies for the millionaires. How about that?

Q21. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

7 Wright Cres. was left to the City by the Catholic nuns to be turned into social housing. Instead, the Council unanimously voted to approve a luxury housing complex construction on the ruins of the perfectly-livable building that nuns used to live in. If you were serious about ‘partnerships’ that would result in ‘affordable’ housing you wouldn’t be doing what you did with 7 Wright Crescent. You know what to do.

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in my neighbourhood.

If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

Homelessness and living in the fear of ending up homeless is a condition of most working people in Kingston. It’s unacceptable. You are asking the wrong questions. You are focusing on ‘problems’ that are either non-existent or not real problems, but rather ‘issues’ (being able to buy, building restrictions for developers, high or low etc.) that those few who don’t have to worry about having a roof over their head are facing. PEOPLE CANNOT AFFORD TO KEEP A ROOF OVER THEIR HEAD. PEOPLE ARE FREEZING TO DEATH ON THE STREETS OF KINGSTON. PEOPLE ARE LIVING IN CONSTANT FEAR OF BEING EVICTED. RENTS ARE SKYROCKETING. The solutions are simple and available: BUILD MORE GEARED-TO-INCOME AND COOPERATIVE HOUSING. FORCE LARGE LANDLORDS TO ALOT GEARED-TO-INCOME UNITS UNTIL THERE IS NO HOUSING WAITING LIST OR PEOPLE SHOWING UP AT HOMELESS SHELTERS!

The houses they are currently building are not affordable housing. They are all being rented out at full market rent. Which is ridiculous due to the long waiting list of people in need of affordable housing. No one on welfare or odsp will be able to afford to live in them. There is always talk about making affordable housing but haven’t seen it yet. The only way to make affordable housing is to lower all the rents.

Need to be more one bedroom options for low income/geared to income. Just because I am low income shouldn't mean sacrificing my privacy and independence to have a place to live. I prefer my own space. Living with roommates in your 30s and 40s+ should be an option, not a necessity because you can't afford to live alone.

Q21. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

There are many empty store fronts downtown and there are many people sleeping on the streets in front of them. Open up the doors and let people sleep inside. Also it is terrible that the city did get a huge donation from a faith based organization to build housing and instead is making it luxury condos with a few units of not GEARED TO INCOME housing but developer set ‘affordable housing’. Please don’t ask for creative solutions and more donations if you are going to flip and sell them to developers.
Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

I have been forced to move at least twice in this city due to large property management companies buying to properties I was renting from and forcing me out to renovate and jack up the rent. Please support renters over landlords or we will never have housing for all in this city.

Q15. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies?

- YES

Q16. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.

Allowing the development of secondary suites as-of-right is common practice in many municipalities, and provides rental spaces in a relatively shorter time than the process of building. Placing strict limits on short-term rentals (such as airbnb) that have displaced traditional leases with short-term profit-seeking by property owners can limit the rental units lost.

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in my neighbourhood.

Q23. Please add any comments you wish to communicate to the Housing Task Force regarding your experience with Kingston’s housing situation, how it affects your life and work, and any suggestions you have for increasing the supply of housing. If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

To be frank, my apartment is an environment that is not conducive to my mental health. However, I cannot afford to move. Rents in my area have increased rapidly, as there is a relatively high turnover of tenants. As I have been in my unit for a few years, my rent has risen at the allowable yearly rate, which means the units around it go for several hundred more per month. This makes affordability measures that rely on area average rents meaningless, and I worry that policy informed by these averages (that are artificially inflated by landlords jacking the price upon turnover) will serve to mask the true affordability crisis. We need to radically reconsider the private market provision of housing, and disincentive the hoarding of wealth by large property developers.

If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data. It could be beneficial to create PSAs about why we need to densify, and the benefits it can bring to a community. There is far too much NIMBY-ism in this city that the public is beginning to fear any new developments in their neighbourhoods due to “character change” and shadows.

Kingston needs more low income housing. Kingston needs more shelters for people currently experiencing homelessness or fleeing domestic violence. These are things we've known for a while now. Listen to groups like KCAP.

Q23. Please add any comments you wish to communicate to the Housing Task Force regarding your experience with Kingston’s housing situation, how it affects your life and work, and any suggestions you have for increasing the supply of housing. If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

I currently am on ODSP and live in social housing. The conditions are awful. I am unable to work and thus are unable to afford to rent a regular apartment. Many on ODSP and especially on OW cannot afford to even rent a room in someone’s house because rental prices are outrageous. The waiting list for social housing is out of control, thus forcing people to become homeless. Yet the city shuts down homeless shelters. The city needs to focus more on mixed-market housing and less on building expensive condos that very few people in this city can actually afford. Use the vacant land at churches (like the one near Providence Care) to build tiny homes for the homeless. Use empty churches themselves as emergency shelters.

Force any Developer going over the former Official Plan bldg height limits to make any additional floors over the limit to be for geared to income, low income units... because I am really not happy with the number of high rises under construction in Williamsville that are going over 4 stories... all those extra units could have put a real dent in the under supply of affordable housing -- it really makes me think that kickbacks were paid to certain people... disgusting how the city failed to make more affordable housing. Do not give developers an option.

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in my neighbourhood.

Q23. Please add any comments you wish to communicate to the Housing Task Force regarding your experience with Kingston’s housing situation, how it affects your life and work, and any suggestions you have for increasing the supply of housing. If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

I moved from Kingston in January 2017, and returned in August 2018. When I left, my rent for a 2 bedroom apartment was $875, and I had experienced very little difficulty in securing this apartment. Upon my return, I found that the vacancy rate in Kingston was very very low, and had to resort to staying with family until I finally managed to find a 2 bedroom apartment in December for $1250 (despite having looked for apartments since June). The low vacancy rates and high rental costs were very prohibitive, and may have prevented me pursuing my master’s degree had I not had family in the area to accommodate myself and my fiancée.

<td>I believe many people are afraid to provide affordable housing because they are afraid of not getting required monthly income or costly damages occur. I know that affordable housing can lower the value of homes in a neighbourhood however if they are scattered in all neighbourhoods in city this will not decrease value.

Applying development rather than stalling it indefinitely for special interest groups. We need high density housing built. As long as a basic environmental assessment passes and building codes are followed there should be no excuse to deny builders.

The current urban sprawl is unsustainable and cannot provide enough units for the housing demand. High density alternatives need to be approved and developed as well as alternative solutions being promoted such as tax breaks or incentives for opening up space in your home (bedrooms, basement, duplex conversion, etc).

i would like to see all levels of government get hyper involved in the housing of people. throughout my week i see many folks who are homeless or lack secure and safe housing. it is heartbreaking. to be healthy people need secure homes (in the style of their own choosing). my understanding is that the guidelines that were put in place to require ‘developers’ to provide some affordable housing with each project are sidestepped. also that they are required to provide for only a couple decades. this is too short sighted. the requirements should be for as long as the buildings exist. the waiting list for affordable/subsidized/geared to income housing is ridiculously long. the city needs to create enough housing to accommodate everyone on the list asap. and a human asap. not a “we’re doing all we can. we have a new task force. in twenty years...” sort of time frame. if city decided to put housing for those in greatest need as a true priority, they could do so much better. i live in a high level of stress due to the housing situation and what it shows about our society’s lack of care. ps- this survey is awkwardly worded/set up. it ought to be more user friendly. being unable to leave some fields blank causes picking answers that are not fitting. this survey does nothing to give me hope in this task forces ability, or even intention, to help those who are in need of affordable housing. (the choice of who the mayor originally put on this task force also speaks to the lack of intention to help those in the most need) i hope that the outcome of this task force prove me wrong.

It has been very difficult to find housing that is affordable, but is not student housing. My husband and I are able to afford our current place, but we want to upsize, because we want to have a family. We can afford slightly more than what we currently pay, but to add an additional amount of space the price jumps dramatically and is wildly out of our price range. What is affordable would make it difficult for us to get to work, because we take transit.

I think there is a lot of discrimination of single mothers. And segregation of putting people in housing all in one location. So we can all be identified as a lower income population. Instead of putting us amongst the city individual properties and treating us like anyone us.

We live on Victoria Street which in the last 32 years has changed significantly. Today the majority of the homes (80%) are occupied for eight months of the year. I am concerned when I witness landlords subdividing these homes without obtaining a building permit. I question the City of Kingston’s responsibility in ensuring safe conditions for the students who rent rooms in these homes for part of the calendar year.

densify affordable apartments downtown Kingston or in areas with basic amenities. Reasoning that people living in suburbs have to drive or take public transport which adds to costs. Granted, Kingston public transport (and cycling lanes!) are getting so much better. Great job! Housing communities in Europe utilize shared, district heating and water supply, shared garbage and much more. Our suburbanization of the city has to be carefully planned.
Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in my neighbourhood.

Q23. Please add any comments you wish to communicate to the Housing Task Force regarding your experience with Kingston’s housing situation, how it affects your life and work, and any suggestions you have for increasing the supply of housing. If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

We are Baby Boomers who need to downsize from our large house in Kingston. We would like to stay in downtown Kingston, and live in either a rental apartment or a condo. We'd like a two-bedroom apartment, because downsizing to one-bedroom seems impossible at this point. We'd also like air conditioning, because the last few summers in our non-air-conditioned house have been almost unbearable. But there is absolutely nothing available that we can afford (we are not millionaires!). Frankly, it now looks as if we may have to move to another city altogether, because the chances of getting the kind of place we want in Kingston are almost zero.

It’s my understanding that the current by-laws do not permit the construction of laneway or similar housing in downtown Kingston, though this is possible in the suburbs. I would be in favour of changing this bylaw to permit this type of construction downtown. This would also increase Kingston’s claim to sustainability, as downtown residents do not need a car.

in -fill. keep building up Princess St. Try to keep the property taxes lower - they are huge. They have more than doubled (including "valuation of house factor) over the past 10 years - very costly. I am not a big fan of increasing separate houses on properties - so many house lots in Kingston are pretty small already. Kitchener had the 4 churches project about 20 years ago - not sure on status. (St. Peters Lutheran). I've recently moved to the old Kingston township - it took me 4 hours to address the massive list of bills I will have now - unlike being in the core and having Kingston Utilities only - now I have separate bills for water heater, gas, electric, and water. This is silly and hook up fees for each one - seriously?

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Well, this is an odd situation because we haven't actually lived in a huge house all these years and so when you ask if we down sized (from our 1200 sq ft house) the answer is no, but we did move to a newer house that has a garage recently. It is actually bigger (1500 sq ft) because we couldn't find something smaller that had a 2 car garage. And, yes, we could afford a house that is much bigger/much more expensive. We just chose to live in a "right sized" house not a mega house - we need to consider the societal norms. per the prior question - my new neighbourhood has a lot of this - duplexes, tri's, small lots, semi's etc. I support this in concept but I am cautious about you saying "more"....

If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

If I support statement about “planning approaches”, it should not include the phrase “appropriately scaled intensification”. This simply is another way of restricting, not encouraging secondary suite development, etc. One person’s “appropriately scaled” suite is another's inappropriately scaled suite. Each should be based on the merits of the property and not a blanket approach to size, placement, style. To much room for NIMBY backlash. In addition, the cost (time/effort) of going through the planning process is far too onerous to undertake; far too expensive; and does not encourage increasing the supply but in fact dissuades those considering doing it.

A had/continue to have a nightmarish experience with my current property management company in Kingston (DMS). I recently relocated from Toronto where I had had the best experience with Morguard and the experience with DMS really made me think about my decision to move. I wasn’t sure if everything about the city was as unprofessional, lacking customer service and unorganized as DMS. The interactions with them surely made my senior mom very anxious (she moved with me), and made me very nervous. Taller building communities with better amenities and professional property management companies would be very helpful to have. Also, encouraging the property management companies who are doing a great job with maintaining the units, investing in newer facilities and amenities while maintaining community spaces and thus reflecting Kingston for what the city stands for - innovation and culture.

I live in Sydenham Ward and I support intensification in our neighbourhood. I think that there needs to be large-scale intensification around Queen’s because there is simply a huge need. I previously lived in an American city of about 120,000 people with a large university. The city was destroyed by short-sighted zoning that limited development near the university. People wanted to preserve historic neighbourhoods, which I think is a good idea, but there wasn’t enough housing close to campus. There was an increase in traffic near campus, people with kids moved out to the suburbs, and the historic neighbourhood ended up turning into crumbling student rentals. I think Kingston needs to remain the sort of place that is attractive to people at all stages of life, and to do that we need to meet the housing shortage with large-scale, mixed, residential-commercial development like what is happening (in places) along Princess.

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes, semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Not sure, I need to learn more about this approach before I could answer either way.

Q23. Please add any comments you wish to communicate to the Housing Task Force regarding your experience with Kingston’s housing situation, how it affects your life and work, and any suggestions you have for increasing the supply of housing. If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

There are too many formerly affordable starter homes being sold at inflated prices to property management companies and as investment properties for middle and upper-middle class individuals, who charge exorbitant rental rates for sub-standard living conditions. During the current housing crisis, limiting these corporations and individuals from purchasing multiple homes to produce unaffordable rentals could be an option. I am in my early 30s, have a degree and post-secondary diploma, work full-time at a job that pays me more than minimum wage, and my hopes of ever owning a home have been absolutely crushed. It is impossible to save when I can barely make ends meet to pay for my basic needs and keep up with the exorbitant rental rates in this city.

In this neighbourhood there are ~ 500 'market' rent or subsidized units. In my opinion the current infill plan (Compton, Weller, Montreal Street areas) will have a negative impact on how the 'north end' community is perceived. While the report of Public Interest Strategy & Communications is over 10 years old I think a lot of the demographics & community issues still hold today - ‘A Community Engagement Strategy for Rideau Heights & Wally Elmer Centre Community Hub.

tiny houses; google "tiny houses Ontario" & there are lots of suppliers, but few places to put them legally, seems only one mobile home place near Toronto. Kingston should have some mobile home parks also places for tiny homes. Also require / enforce % of all apartments to have permanent affordable/low rental housing. 1st floor retail, upper floor(s) rentals - like downtown Kingston/Princess Street. Big box places could be communities, not just stores. Zoning would have to change. Also suburbs could have more zoning for stores/apartments, eg small malls in suburbs, eg Bayridge/Bath road area. I would love to have walkable stores near me, most places require driving.
Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

We will be looking to downsize/rent in next 10-15 years, and we need an apartment with walkable amenities (groceries, library, church, restaurants etc) - that is AFFORDABLE. We are not poor, but downtown/waterfront apartments are VERY expensive.

Something I would like to communicate is as a single person on disability, who is a responsible individual currently going through a lot of treatment around my PTSD, I feel the market is unfairly skewed towards students when it comes to finding living accommodations to my financial bracket, which has to be a room, not an apartment because of that. This feels deeply unfair as I know I have been a good tenant in the place I am renting a room in currently (which I am having to move from, due to her selling the place and moving). Advertisements that consistently only say “students/working professionals” are making it difficult to find the housing needed and from talking to others locally, I would say student housing is having a huge impact on prices and housing available. I am having a difficult enough time I am feeling I might be forced to move from Kingston. I want students to be safely housed of course, but also others in the community, and anything that would make affordable housing more available for those lower income that are not students would be a welcome addition.

In Polson Park, there is already a trend towards investors buying local single-family dwellings and converting them into multi-unit (multi-bedroom) rentals. The infrastructure (notably roads, parking) cannot sustain this, and it’s bordering on deceptive - people build “granny flats” and granny never moves in, and then the entire property gets rented out. These approvals really need to stop, and the City needs to better track the conversion of houses from owner-inhabited to renters. I don’t think the City has a good sense of what’s really going on in the single-family housing area of Polson Park. There is tremendous pressure here from Queen’s and SLC students looking for places to rent, and more and more houses are becoming rentals, increasing noise, traffic and poor exterior (lawn, building) maintenance in the area.

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in my neighbourhood.

Q23. Please add any comments you wish to communicate to the Housing Task Force regarding your experience with Kingston's housing situation, how it affects your life and work, and any suggestions you have for increasing the supply of housing. If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

Reasonably affordable rental units are needed very badly. My husband and I make middle class salaries, have savings, and almost ended up homeless when we first moved here because of the low vacancy rates. We have little desire to own a house, and would do almost anything to avoid moving as we know we are unlikely to find anything as affordable and convenient as what we currently have. We don’t have a car and have no desire to buy one, which is a decision that should be encouraged for environmental reasons. Our carbon footprint is a small fraction of the average person in our tax bracket. The city also needs to crack down on slumlords renting out unlivable units. We rented a place sight unseen when we first got here because we were moving from out of province. It was dangerously unlivable - and the rent was $1200/month. Complete joke.

We lived in an apartment before purchasing our home. We love our residential neighbourhood. We do have homes that have rentals on our street. They have no pride of ownership, park on the sidewalks constantly, do not shovel in the winter, parking on the street becomes an issue. Carriage houses sound great but if rules & bylaws are not enforced you are ruining great neighbourhoods. I see it in the West end all the time. Livingston, Pembroke etc.

   Senior living - shared space with students and seniors. I know this is happening in other cities. Co-housing - very popular in Vancouver. Temporary modular housing for low income and for people experiencing homelessness. https://vancouver.ca/people-programs/temporary-modular-housing I worked on that project and it has seen huge successes. Other task force proposals involve enhanced protections for renters and new regulations for the rental market. It's suggested restrictions for short-term rentals (like those listed on Airbnb), a "robust" tenant-relocation policy, and the establishment of a "rent bank", where tenants who are temporarily short on cash could secure a no-cost loan.
Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Not sure, I need to learn more about this approach before I could answer either way.

1) While intensification is great and clearly needed with an explosive university enrolment population and a campaign to attract more residents, Air BnB (and other platforms like it) needs to be regulated now. Creating more rentals only works if they are long term. Regulation needs to come with enforcement and proper taxation of what are essentially short term commercial short term rentals. 2) I am afraid the core is losing a sense of community as our beautiful historic homes are being destroyed by students. The university and college need to be part of the housing issue as they continue to grow and take away family homes faster than we can build them. The students need to be in apartments and the homes and back yards need to go back to actual families, otherwise the core will be hollowed out, decayed and under-utilized. 3) Foreign buyers are starting to purchase Kingston houses for large amounts of money in my neighbourhood. What is the plan if houses are seen more as investments and less as a place to dwell? It might be wise to get in front of this as large urban centres are familiar with this phenomenon.

When I leave my house (as a Sr.), it is difficult to think of where one can go as the housing is so limited. High taxes may force me out (in the university area (of where I have lived for over 35 yrs. I am paying $879/month - far too high for an older home) Making room for more students in this area is squeezing out the residents, especially now with the threat of a new Queen’s residence being built in a residential area and ruining the look of the older area.

Happy to see the issue being seriously attend to. As a member of both the military and academic community in Kingston, unavailability of housing is a regular topic of conversation and source of frustration. Is this work is being done in close collaboration with the active transport plan?

   A few options here:
   - Converting old schools instead of tearing them down.
   - Hotels/motels converting to apartments.
   - Tiny home communities in vacant spaces/unused parking lots.
   - Incentives for homeowners to rent out rooms or create separate rentals.
   - Increased public or affordable transportation for rural neighborhoods, where housing is more affordable to begin with.
   - Single unit spaces in large buildings. Many young people don't need big houses or apartments. 1 bedroom spaces in large complexes would suffice.

It is our responsibility as citizens to ensure that everyone has access to safe, affordable housing. All of the options above have the potential to create these spaces.

I am barely able to afford my current small not great apartment for my family. The housing wait list is 10 years from what we were told, my rent goes up every year there is no ceiling for it to hit. Please consider in acting rent freezes. I dont know what I am going to do in the future. I am low income and what do you do when your rent increases more then the place is even worth. Where are we supposed to go?

One of the biggest issues in an aging population is keeping seniors in their homes. There are some great programs in other parts of the world that place students with seniors, or other people within the community that need a place to live and the relationship within these living situations benefit both parties. Helping with loneliness and isolation in turn help to keep people healthier and live longer. The other person benefits from having a safe place to live as well as feeling part of community and having a relationship that might not normally have been found.

Q23. Please add any comments you wish to communicate to the Housing Task Force regarding your experience with Kingston’s housing situation, how it affects your life and work, and any suggestions you have for increasing the supply of housing. If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

The emphasis should be on appropriately scaled intensification. Princes Street from Division to Bath is an example of extremely poorly intensified housing. The buildings have no street appeal (e.g.) small businesses at street level instead they present impenetrable and sterile walls. They are frequently built right up to the boundary whereas they should be stepped back and there should be a requirement for trees and some green/garden space. These buildings are frequently simply boxes of varying sizes. Considerably better architectural design should be insisted on. Down town Kingston is known for its old stone buildings. Why allow developers to go over height restrictions? Such buildings are inappropriately scaled for the area. More small scale well designed apartment buildings (4 -6 stories), row houses and town houses are more appropriate for increasing housing supply in Kingston than high rise buildings. Affordable housing should have to remain affordable. The owners of high rise rental apartments should not be allowed to change the designation of such apartments at a later date.

Q21. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

- Older motels become small homes, opening up 2 units per person, efficient, common outdoor space. House sharing, not just room rental!

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes, semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

- Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in my neighbourhood.
Q23. Please add any comments you wish to communicate to the Housing Task Force regarding your experience with Kingston’s housing situation, how it affects your life and work, and any suggestions you have for increasing the supply of housing. If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

I and my daughter both have rental units- in my case, one in my duplexed carriage house and in her family’s case, four units as a pension plan. People should be aware that being an owner demands skill with buildings and renters. Often there is a large down payment, ongoing repairs and attention and in many cases bare coverage of the mortgage before a place begins to make a profit. People need to know that the part of their home which is rented is subject to capital gains, as it is a business. I’d inform people wanting secondary units that their principal residence is no longer capital gains-free. Better t be aware beforehand.

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in my neighbourhood.

If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

The rent in this city is obscene. If I didn't have family here, I would not stay in Kingston as I can telecommute from anywhere in Canada to do my job and would save about $300 a month in rent. If I had a family of my own, I would have to live somewhere else because I couldn't afford to raise them. I personally know people who have limited their family size due to the cost of living here. I hope you find a solution and I support anything that will lead to reduced housing costs (and rent). Thank you for being so open to feedback and community input.

Q15. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies? YES

Q16. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.

I understand that in some USA cities have changed zoning bylaws to encourage more mixed housing. This is also being discussed to some degree in Toronto. I believe we need more town homes, low rise apartments in our downtown area as well as allowing large existing houses to be subdivided into several units.

We also need more subsidized and non-profit housing. Our current “affordable” at 80% of market rent is totally not affordable for many.

Young people want to live downtown. We need high rise condominiums so young professionals can live downtown and will stay in Kingston, instead of leaving for more forward-thinking cities like Toronto. We can balance protecting the skyline with creating housing that actually meets the needs of young people.

Q15. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies? YES

Q16. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.

   In the neighbourhood just south of downtown Vancouver, the city changed all single family zoning to multi family zoning, so removal of war-time homes to build R4 apartment buildings does not need permission from its hall. About 20 cities in the USA are doing this to increase affordable housing. Some have completely eliminated the single family zoning in the entire city.

Please remove the word scaled from the above question. Certainly we never want to see areas of only single family homes without any 30 story buildings.

If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

The last Mayor’s Task Force (under Gerretsen) smoothed the way for developers to get what they wanted more quickly without regard to what was best for the City and the neighbourhoods in which the development is taking place. This Task Force needs to remember that whatever they recommend has impacts on the existing neighbourhoods. This needs to be taken into account.

Q20. Do you have any ideas for CREATIVE PARTNERSHIPS that could increase the supply of affordable housing? (Examples: faith-based organization with land to re-purpose, business with empty retail space, etc)
NO

Q21. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.
not answered

Q22. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in your neighbourhood through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?
Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in my neighbourhood.
Q23. Please add any comments you wish to communicate to the Housing Task Force regarding your experience with Kingston’s housing situation, how it affects your life and work, and any suggestions you have for increasing the supply of housing. If you can, we would welcome your bringing to our attention any details, references to studies or data.

- Quality of rental units is abysmal; dirty, unclean, bad odors for an extremely high price. Availability of housing near transit lines was also hard to find. Generating housing in areas that are within walking distances of many of Kingston business (both to work at and shop) would be highly desirable (and follow city bylaws for development)

Q21. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

There is the homeshare program in Toronto combining students with elderly home owners. I would entertain the possibility of multiple older seniors occupying a larger house with shared supportive care. ie cleaning.

I honestly don’t think this will happen in Kingston. I feel the pressure from single family home owners will be too much to allow change. I would love to see mixed use dense house in the core of Kingston. I want to see an increased population to allow for expansion of “nice” downtown area to extend from Clergy up to John A.

   This strategy may no longer be applicable, but in 1980, the Alberta Housing Corporation responded to the recognized increasing demand for housing, by imposing increased density and the allocation of additional lots for mobile housing.

I live in a neighbourhood that failed to incorporate any intensification effort. In the development of my neighbourhood, at Planning Committee, the developer promised to establish affordable housing in excess of the minimum requirement. No affordable housing was provided. Current sub-urban sprawl should be curtailed with the increase of minimum density; more housing within the same space to meet the demands while reducing the sprawl. The following question is poorly worded. It could be asking the respondent to imagine that the concerns became relevant to the current home. Every respondent would want to move from a pest infested, too small, too noisy, too cold, to unsafe ... residence. To what degree would these factors CAUSE YOU TO MOVE FROM YOUR CURRENT HOME? *

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:
   Create a fund to subsidize affordable housing. Tax owners with empty units and AirBnB hosts and allocate those funds to the subsidy. Research other municipalities globally to find comparative solutions. A comprehensive study should be done, and there are plenty of capable local researchers who could do it.

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:
   Contribute to subsidy funds.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:
   Contribute to subsidy funds.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?
   Having/finding infrastructure. The immediate task ought to be locating spaces where units are available or can be quickly readied for residents.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?
   I do not know enough about housing bureaucracy to answer this question.

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston? YES

Q10. Please describe these barriers:
   N/A

Q11. Are you aware of any opportunities for MIXED-USE DEVELOPMENT in Kingston? (residences which are blended with commercial, cultural, institutional or industrial uses) NO

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

- Lower property tax

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

- Provide incentives for people that own. Make it easier for people to rent rooms to people for long term or short term rentals.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

- Stop Banks from controlling mortgages and making it so difficult for people to own a home. No one has that kind of money for a down payment unless you save for 10-20 years.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

- Having people who actually care about what they do and aren’t there for a fat pay cheque.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

- Close AMHS and expand services through hospitals to provide seamless access. All 3 managers worked together previously at providence care which resulted in several lawsuits. This will happen again.

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston?

- NO

Q10. Please describe these barriers:

- not answered

Q11. Are you aware of any opportunities for MIXED-USE DEVELOPMENT in Kingston? (residences which are blended with commercial, cultural, institutional or industrial uses)

- YES

Q12. Please describe your mixed-use development opportunity

- Lyon street- will be running all 3 residential programs from one location. Forensics, comprehensive integrative, and safe bed program. This is mixing current drug users (heavy crystal meth and heroin users in with people who have restrictions and have to go for urine/ blood tests). This is going to open up a can of worms and people are going to die either from drug over doses or someone burning down the building.

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

As long as buildings with 4 or more rental units have 75% of more of those units designated as affordable housing (15% or more below the current market rate), they should receive a reduction of 35% on the municipal portion of their property tax bills. By current market rate I mean the CURRENT year - not current market value from 2 years ago.

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

As long as buildings with 4 or more rental units have 75% of more of those units designated as affordable housing (15% or more below market rate), they should receive a reduction of 35% on property tax levies mandated by the province.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

As long as buildings with 4 or more rental units have 75% of more of those units designated as affordable housing (15% or more below market rate), they should receive at least a 25% reduction on their property-related insurance rate - the discounted amount being reimbursed by the federal government or distributed directly to the insurance company.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

I'm not currently aware of the current approvals process so can't make a suggestion.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

I'm not currently aware of the current approvals process, so can't make a suggestion.

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston?

NO

Q15. There is a skilled trades shortage that contributes to increasing the cost of building housing. What actions could be taken to increase the availability of skilled trades to support increased housing development?

Skilled trade program offerings in high schools have been suffering since I was a student. Upcoming cuts to the education system are going to further impact this. Offering some woodworking classes as part of city-run summer programs could be useful in rebuilding interest.

Q16. What would motivate you to add housing supply to the City?

If I had the capital and equity, I'd certainly consider it.

Q17. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies?

Q2. Your email address

Q3. Your postal code

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

   Less Regulation and duplication of endless studies lower costs of applications allow staff to exercise judgement reward creative novel solutions rather than shooting down anything unfamiliar

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

   Lower assessments

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

   Lower hst on construction materials cut capital gains tax stop treating rental income as investment income with its high tax rate

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

   Cut red tape speed up dates between hearings allow individual home owners to build second units without parking studies etc

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

   Reduce red tape speed up approval processes reduce the number of permits licenses and additional costs that create no value 27 permits to build a rental property???

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston? YES

   Please describe these barriers:

   Cost of parking planning studies zone change applications just to make a single family home into a duplex. Not a student rental. So the total number of occupants or cars at the property would not be any greater than accommodated by having one large apartment occupied by one large family with two cars

Q10. Are you aware of any opportunities for MIXED-USE DEVELOPMENT in Kingston? (residences which are blended with commercial, cultural, institutional or industrial uses) NO
Q12. Please describe your mixed-use development opportunity

not answered

Q13. Are there specific costs associated with developing housing for the student rental market?

NO

Q14. Please describe and include any suggestions you have to help manage these costs

not answered

Q15. There is a skilled trades shortage that contributes to increasing the cost of building housing. What actions could be taken to increase the availability of skilled trades to support increased housing development?

Skilled trades are the least of our worries. Licensing trades is a worry. Ie why do licensed electricians need to be master electricians to work in the city.

Q16. What would motivate you to add housing supply to the City?

Reduce the requirements for endless duplicated studies why does a unit built on one side of the street have to provide its own parking study when one was required and completed for a study for a unit across the street? allow flexibility in zone modification requirements

Q17. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies?

YES

Q18. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.

Small houses

Q19. Do you have any ideas for CREATIVE PARTNERSHIPS that could increase the supply of affordable housing? (Examples: faith-based organization with land to re-purpose, business with empty retail space, etc)

YES

Q20. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

Increase density within existing by treating them as special intensification that requires requires only a building permit and if it involves no structural work does not require stamped engineering drawings. Create a listing of approved drafting design individuals and small contractors willing to do small renovation to make it easy for homeowners who have never built a secondary unit within their house to be able to do it. This would open up many houses occupied by single seniors to modification and rental in a short time

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

Tell developers that if their plans do not deviate from the City's Official Plan that they will get a building permit without any hassle; but, if they insist on building plans that are contrary to the City's Official Plan, expect that their application will be delayed and probably rejected by City Council. It's about time that City Council and the Planning Department took the City's Official Plan seriously, instead of approving developers' projects that take little heed to what limits the height and size of residential buildings.

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

Remove the HST from residential purchases.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

Remove the HST from residential purchases.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

Reject all applications for building permits that do not comply with the City's Official Plan, (beyond minor variances). If property speculators and developers are allowed to believe that they only need to get Council's approval to overcome the limits of the Official Plan, they'll not bother to comply with it.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

Set a time limit on building permits. If a building hasn't been built within the time limit, another building permit will be required, (including application fees).

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston?

NO

Q10. Please describe these barriers:

Q11. Are you aware of any opportunities for MIXED-USE DEVELOPMENT in Kingston? (residences which are blended with commercial, cultural, institutional or industrial uses)

YES
Q12. Please describe your mixed-use development opportunity

It's called "social housing"! The City has already promoted a mixed-use project, on the vacant City property next to 1338 Princess Street, then did absolutely nothing after consulting with the public.

Q13. Are there specific costs associated with developing housing for the student rental market? YES

Q14. Please describe and include any suggestions you have to help manage these costs

Stop allowing developers to reduce the requirements for parking. Just because they say that students don't need parking spaces does not mean that they can off-load these costs onto the City, (when tenants need to get City parking). Many landlords renting to students also rent parking in the University District. Do they have a business license to operate these long-term parking lots?

Q15. There is a skilled trades shortage that contributes to increasing the cost of building housing. What actions could be taken to increase the availability of skilled trades to support increased housing development?

There is no real shortage of skilled trades workers. This is a myth. There are many skilled trades workers who are not being offered jobs or are only offered low-paying jobs.

Q16. What would motivate you to add housing supply to the City?

The lack of affordable and social housing that was reported to the City more than a dozen years ago, (which was not adequately dealt with by the last three City Councils).

Q17. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies? YES

Q18. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.

There are cities that actually have an Official Plan and abide by it. If Kingston's City Council really wanted to do something intelligent, it would build some social housing units and incorporate community services in the project that would lower its costs, (for example, district heating).

Q19. Do you have any ideas for CREATIVE PARTNERSHIPS that could increase the supply of affordable housing? (Examples: faith-based organization with land to re-purpose, business with empty retail space, etc) YES

Q20. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

Yes, but why is the City looking to partner with religious organizations to do the work that the City should be doing with its tax dollars?

Q14. Please describe and include any suggestions you have to help manage these costs

The process is long and expensive with no guarantee of approval at the end, very frustrating.

Q15. There is a skilled trades shortage that contributes to increasing the cost of building housing. What actions could be taken to increase the availability of skilled trades to support increased housing development?

I disagree with the premise of the question. I don't have a problem getting trades people. I have had a small densification project rejected after spending $2000 on architectural drawings and much personal time. The issue was parking spots and most students don't require parking. They walk and use transit.

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

Allow condo buildings to be built with fewer units sold under condition that any unsold be rented out. Rebates to home rents that create secondary units. Higher taxes or fees on vacant houses. Higher taxes or fees on undeveloped non-farm land.

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

Require municipalities to reach or exceed a quota of developer permits with a reasonable project timeline. Create more consistent and reliable transportation between municipalities to encourage and enable more people to live in less urban areas.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

Offer incentives to smaller municipalities to increase development including commercial incentives to create jobs to draw new residents.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

Make the criteria for approval clear and simple. Take bids/proposals for municipally owned lots for development. Review and clarify zoning. Use councillors to communicate with their districts to see which neighborhoods are open to developers and have them suggest development ideas. Hire more staff to approve projects.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

Offer tax credits for maintaining a timeline. Have dedicated staff overseeing each project. Prioritize residential development over other kinds.

NO

Q12. Please describe your mixed-use development opportunity

Bayridge centre near strand boulevard. The strip mall is aged and on a large lot that would be an excellent location to add apartments above the stores It may increase business for the stores, and is close to schools, groceries, and buses.

Q13. Are there specific costs associated with developing housing for the student rental market?
YES

Q14. Please describe and include any suggestions you have to help manage these costs

Limit the number of students/residents per sq. ft. Create zoning for student rentals and tax it higher.

Q15. There is a skilled trades shortage that contributes to increasing the cost of building housing. What actions could be taken to increase the availability of skilled trades to support increased housing development?

Lower tuition for those programs, allow people to learn trades outside of college. Offer real incentives for trades people to take on apprenticeships. Push those careers for people looking to return to the workforce or doing the “second career” program.

Q16. What would motivate you to add housing supply to the City?

A crowd sourced map where residents can flag areas that can be and need development

Q17. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies?
NO

Q18. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.

not answered

Q19. Do you have any ideas for CREATIVE PARTNERSHIPS that could increase the supply of affordable housing? (Examples: faith-based organization with land to re-purpose, business with empty retail space, etc)
YES

Q20. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

The cataraqui mall could repurpose the Sears section to build a condo with areas on the lower levels for businesses and office space

Q21. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in existing neighbourhoods through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?
Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in existing neighbourhoods.

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

Commit to a three level partnership to fund and/or motivate developers to build affordable housing units as a component of every new development approved. Left to market drivers alone, housing markets in communities like Kingston are forcing low income residents to leave their community to find affordable housing. Even homeowners who already have equity in Kingston's housing market, find that escalating real estate prices mean that for many at the lower end of the market, they cannot afford to sell and re-purchase in Kingston when their circumstances change ie downsizing due to employment/age/mobility changes.

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

Commit to a three level partnership to fund and/or motivate developers to build affordable housing units as a component of every new development approved. Left to market drivers alone, housing markets in communities like Kingston are forcing low income residents to leave their community to find affordable housing. Even homeowners who already have equity in Kingston's housing market, find that escalating real estate prices mean that for many at the lower end of the market, they cannot afford to sell and re-purchase in Kingston when their circumstances change ie downsizing due to employment/age/mobility changes.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

Commit to a three level partnership to fund and/or motivate developers to build affordable housing units as a component of every new development approved. Left to market drivers alone, housing markets in communities like Kingston are forcing low income residents to leave their community to find affordable housing. Even homeowners who already have equity in Kingston's housing market, find that escalating real estate prices mean that for many at the lower end of the market, they cannot afford to sell and re-purchase in Kingston when their circumstances change ie downsizing due to employment/age/mobility changes.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

Speed of applications should not be an issue. First of all, the City has to get the housing mix right. This question suggests that the developers are driving the development agenda - not the City. If the process is fair and transparent, then projects will be approved in due course. Developers who place undue pressure on the City for approvals can go elsewhere to build. The City's client base is its taxpayers - official plans set out the rules. Developers who try to game the system should be encouraged to move on.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

Once again, as long as the City has committed to appropriate staffing levels to move applications through the approvals and inspection stages in a timely fashion, this should not be a problem.
Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston? NO

Q10. Please describe these barriers: not answered

Q11. Are you aware of any opportunities for MIXED-USE DEVELOPMENT in Kingston? (residences which are blended with commercial, cultural, institutional or industrial uses) NO

Q12. Please describe your mixed-use development opportunity not answered

Q13. Are there specific costs associated with developing housing for the student rental market? not answered

Q14. Please describe and include any suggestions you have to help manage these costs not answered

Q15. There is a skilled trades shortage that contributes to increasing the cost of building housing. What actions could be taken to increase the availability of skilled trades to support increased housing development? Unfortunately, recent cuts to funding education initiatives in trades education at the Ontario provincial level will have a deleterious effect on filling the skilled trades gap. This has been a problem (lack of young people choosing trades as a career) for many years, which governments/unions continue to mismanage. Our Boards of Education - LDSB for one - have set up some great programs to encourage students to consider trades as an option, but have seen funding to these programs cut.

Q16. What would motivate you to add housing supply to the City? I'm not a developer, however, as a resident, I am very concerned that blocks of low income housing are being taken out of the system and are not being replaced. For example, the housing units which were adjacent to the Wally Elmer Arena, and pending redevelopment in the Wilson Ave area. Where are these displaced families to go?? Are they going to be rehoused in the replacement units? Seems like urban gentrification at work!

Q17. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies? NO

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

Change zoning to permit and encourage increased density throughout the city. The only exception should be curbing the development of new land outside of the existing urban area. Moderately tall buildings should be permitted in most of the city and there should be little to no restriction on converting single family homes to larger numbers of units or adding small standalone homes to existing suburban lots.

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

Improve the funding situation for city governments and particularly fund the construction of affordable rental units.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

Tax subsidies to home ownership should be eliminated and government subsidies (i.e. guarantees) should be reduced or eliminated. They do little for the poorest and mostly serve to drive up prices and encourage people to buy larger houses then they could otherwise afford.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

All regulations should be reviewed for their real-world impact and those that are not providing a public good should be removed. Many types of small projects (Subdividing an existing building/ building a small unit on an existing residential property) should be approved automatically as long as safety and environmental regulations are being complied with.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

not answered

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston?

Q15. There is a skilled trades shortage that contributes to increasing the cost of building housing. What actions could be taken to increase the availability of skilled trades to support increased housing development?

Encouraging cultural changes to make those trades less hostile to women and minorities, encouraging higher wages, and lobbying for increased immigration levels.

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:
   limit foreign buyers of homes, so they can't launder their money here in Kingston, like they are in Vancouver

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:
   Put the cap back on rental increases. I have enough friends fighting to pay rent and if they increase them too much, they will be out on the streets.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:
   Stop taxing us to death.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?
   I don't know. I don't understand why it takes so long in the first place. Way to much micro managing control over home projects. The inspectors need to be a little kinder as well...some of them are just plain cranky and it seems they take pleasure in telling someone their project isn't good enough.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?
   Not much. It all depends on contractors.

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

I feel that the municipal government is spending money on frivolous things when they can be doing so much more. Who needs another meeting? No one. Take action and quit spending the money on coffee and donuts! As far as the homelessness goes, I told you HALFWAY HOUSES is the way to go. This will stop crime. The people will have to prove themselves for a year and within this time they will be vetted to make sure that they are responsible enough to be in permanent housing causing less damage, violence. Cutting down on police costs, damages, court costs an all around WIN WIN!

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

vote Ford out of power

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

PM Pierre Elliot Trudeau got the ball rolling in his second term and I have complete faith that Justin will do the same and that he is on the right track to leading the country. He has to watch out and stand up against Trump who is a bully and is trying to bully him. Justin has just grown his "balls" now he just got to grow the hair on them.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

Have people like me who did appear on GLOBAL NEWS Kingston willing to fight back. Housing Corp put the blame on Street Health and that is totally WRONG it is the lack of SECURITY that is the problem with 381 Bagot Street Housing is saving the money in the bank accounts. They get grants and they are not doing the work. THEY NEED TO HAVE THERE BANK ACCOUNT STUDIED BY A FORENSIC ACCOUNTANT !!!!!!!

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

Halfway houses to vet new tenants. Once a tenant is approved for permanent placement and they turn out to be a drug dealer, and awful disrespectful neighbor, have dogs that are unruly, or cause fights etc it takes up to 6 mos to evict if you're lucky. If they were 1st placed in a 1/2 way house for up to 1 yr and vetted to see if they are able to be a responsible tenant then they could be possibly moved into permanent housing. It is ridiculous the way it is handled now.

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

Remove the parking requirement entirely for the creation of new living units. Let the market decide whether a parking space is necessary, especially in the downtown urban core where active and public transportation is so available. Requiring a parking space necessarily reduces the space for people. It also significantly adds to the cost of creating a new unit. That cost needs to be recovered in the rent. Also, move to the Ottawa winter overnight street parking model. They post which streets will have snow removal on a given night. People requiring overnight street parking simply move to a different street but street parking is available overnight year round.

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

Reinstate the rebate incentive program for energy efficiency retrofits.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

I have no ideas for this.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

City staff do not seem to be on the same page as elected Councilors when it comes to a speedy process. Recently, it took almost a month to get a very simple plumbing permit approved. Also, I'm in the earliest stage of pre-application discussion about conversion of my single family dwelling into a 5 or 6 unit co-housing for seniors building. It is zoned B for 3 - 6 units but I'm still being advised that I might need a site specific zoning change with the attached costs and delays. I'm questioning on that basis as to whether to bother trying to go ahead with that plan even though it's totally in alignment with the City's vision.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

I haven't crossed that bridge yet, so I don't have a comment on that yet.

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston? YES

Q10. Please describe these barriers:

Already described above. Parking requirement relief may be my biggest hurdle in getting City approvals.
| Q11. Are you aware of any opportunities for MIXED-USE DEVELOPMENT in Kingston? (residences which are blended with commercial, cultural, institutional or industrial uses) | NO |
| Q12. Please describe your mixed-use development opportunity | not answered |
| Q13. Are there specific costs associated with developing housing for the student rental market? | NO |
| Q14. Please describe and include any suggestions you have to help manage these costs | not answered |
| Q15. There is a skilled trades shortage that contributes to increasing the cost of building housing. What actions could be taken to increase the availability of skilled trades to support increased housing development? | Host a skilled trades fair where home owners wanting to add secondary suites could meet with contractors and contractors could meet with skilled trades people and persons interested in being taken on as apprentices. |
| Q16. What would motivate you to add housing supply to the City? | Everyone from City Councilors to City staff being on the same page with regard to helping home owners and small developers get their projects approved in a more timely and cost effective way. |
| Q17. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies? | NO |
| Q18. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore. | not answered |
| Q19. Do you have any ideas for CREATIVE PARTNERSHIPS that could increase the supply of affordable housing? (Examples: faith-based organization with land to re-purpose, business with empty retail space, etc) | NO |
Q21. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in existing neighbourhoods through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Yes, I support appropriately scaled intensification in existing neighbourhoods.

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

This question is really difficult to answer for the average person. I'm a lawyer, who practices in municipal law, and I don't even have a clear opinion on this. I find this question and the four following assume a very high baseline knowledge of development and law. That said, if planning staff were to enforce adherence to the OP and other policies that have been developed with a proper civic process, that would very likely reduce the chance of resident appeals and lower costs accordingly. CIP plans have been used by the City, in partnership with other levels of government, to good use. I believe the CIP mandate could be expanded to include property tax incentives to encourage certain types of development in appropriate areas more than they are now. We could get more creative with the CIPs. At the moment, I would have to spend hours considering this question. Additionally, I'm not really concerned with lowering costs. I'm concerned with appropriate development, carefully planned by our excellent City planners. I find it slightly concerning that cost to developers is the first issue being considered in this survey.

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

Please see above.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

Please see above.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

In the early steps of the process, when developers meet with planners, have the planners be firm about sticking to the OP and other policy guidelines. These policies have been developed through a careful civic process, and having City staff be firm in the need to respect and adhere to these policies reduces tension with local residents.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

Have more community consultation earlier in the process, with more visible ways in which community feedback alters the proposed design. Allow very little alterations to the OP, especially in terms of height and density. These steps will help community appeals be less necessary. Set clear guidelines about affordable and geared-to-income housing in each district of the City, and refuse to adjust to avoid NIMBYism from neighbours who don't want affordable housing in their neighbourhood.

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston? NO
Q10. Please describe these barriers:

Q11. Are you aware of any opportunities for MIXED-USE DEVELOPMENT in Kingston? (residences which are blended with commercial, cultural, institutional or industrial uses)
YES

Q12. Please describe your mixed-use development opportunity
I’d like to comment that this survey is particularly challenging for the average person, and seems heavily slanted towards receiving the feedback of the development community. With all due respect, how is the average resident supposed to know the different options available through the various levels of government? I would prefer to see the survey redrafted so it asks questions that can be answered effectively by all residents of the City, as I firmly believe that the opinions of all residents should be heard on this important issue. This question in particular is unfair. Why should I have to have a mixed-use development opportunity? Why can’t my opinion matter, whether or not I have such an opportunity? Indeed, if I were a Kingston resident who is having difficulty accessing housing, this question would be discouraging and even denigrating to me. Perhaps it would be more appropriate to have two surveys: one for residents with development opportunities, and one for residents without such opportunities, but who still wish to participate in the civic process.

Q13. Are there specific costs associated with developing housing for the student rental market?
not answered

Q14. Please describe and include any suggestions you have to help manage these costs
not answered

Q15. There is a skilled trades shortage that contributes to increasing the cost of building housing. What actions could be taken to increase the availability of skilled trades to support increased housing development?
Greater City support for trades, through the St. Lawrence program. City sponsorship of apprentices and employers willing to take on apprentices.

Q16. What would motivate you to add housing supply to the City?
I’m not in a position to add housing, but I’m very alarmed at the increasing cost of renting or purchasing a home here.

Q17. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies?
YES

Q18. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.
Clearer guidelines in the OP and supporting policies and greater adherence to these policies.

Q19. Do you have any ideas for CREATIVE PARTNERSHIPS that could increase the supply of affordable housing? (Examples: faith-based organization with land to re-purpose, business with empty retail space, etc)
YES
Q20. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

The Sisters of Providence are wrapping up their affairs, and have significant assets to give away. I understand some housing has been discussed at Providence Village, which was not able to be completed because of contractual issues. I would like to see the City support the Sisters as they try to create affordable and geared-to-income housing with their wealth.

Q21. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in existing neighbourhoods through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

Investments grants, applied for by municipalities, to Pre-Authorize brownfield/infill sites for the types of housing targeted in Official Plans. Let's say there is an area the city would like to see midrise, mixed affordable and market housing because it fits into the transportation and services network but is not being developed. The city could, with the assistance of a federal/provincial grant, get an environmental assessment, community impact study etc.. completed that can then be handed over to a developer.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

A. Set time limits for decisions with financial consequences. If special interest groups are going to appeal a development all the way to Provincial arbitration, it doesn't matter how much time is taken for the initial decision. From public proposal, opportunity for public feedback, to councils vote, should be a designated timeline.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

Raise property tax rate for undeveloped residential lots to HIGHER than that of regular residential property. This is justified because, since we know there is demand for housing, by not building units owners of undeveloped properites are limiting the municipal tax base and costing the city money. They are also making our powe, water, and transit systems less efficient. Part of a developers proposal should be a proposed occupancy date. The tax rate remains elevated until occupancy. If the developer/builder meets their occupancy deadline they receive a tax rebate covering the time the proposal was approved to the time of occupancy (worth the difference of rate over that time). If they fail to meet the date, not only do they fail to get the rebate, they enter into an even higher property tax bracket until they hit their occupancy date.

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

Bonuses for eco-friendly construction. Incentives for rain water collection/usage (rain water for toilets/sinks). Incentives for inclusion of a single unit addition to the build (adding a tenant option to the new build or renovation).

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

Improvements on electricity usage within the household, more efficient heating and insulation (reducing energy consumption/pollution). Incentives on solar panel installations. Incentives on better insulated constructions and thermal mass designs. Promotions on the housing of “in-need” members of community.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

Programs to support the development of a rental unit within a property to support the arrival of immigrants and refugees. Programs to support the development/transformation of units to support the housing of population in need of relocation (displaced due to inclement weather/hazards). Program to support the housing of youth from troubled communities to support them in accessing education/schools while providing them accessible lodging.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

Developing template projects that are "pre-approved". Applying for such a project (when your property meets the standards/pre-requisites) would then be a much quicker process.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

Again, templates and pre-approval of concepts would be useful.

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston?

NO

Q15. There is a skilled trades shortage that contributes to increasing the cost of building housing. What actions could be taken to increase the availability of skilled trades to support increased housing development?

A board should clearly identify the gaps (shortages), and external support/contracts should be envisioned to bring in much needed experts to fill the gap temporarily. The increasing housing cost for the sake of "local company support" is actually degrading the quality of living for others (prices are increasing abnormally). Shortages are devaluing other trades which are better represented. Shortages are also creating pressures which may result in bad contracting practices to bypass the "cue".

Q16. What would motivate you to add housing supply to the City?

Realistic build cost and return on investment perspectives.

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

   Speeding up approvals process; modifying official plan to allow meaningful intensification and higher heights, eliminating minimum lot size and set-back (side, rear, front) requirements, allowing increased lot coverage, allowing “tiny houses” and secondary suites

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

   Increased allocation of resources to speed up appeals process; change rules of appeals process to focus on good planning and to ignore NIMBY pressures.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

   not answered

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

   Increase staffing (along with increased fees to cover staffing costs). More flexibility in Official Plan and Zoning to allow more uses without having to go through variance and appeals processes.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

   Speed up inspection processes -- fewer delays awaiting inspections at each step by having more inspectors available on more days.

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston? YES

Q10. Please describe these barriers:

   Lot coverage and set-back restrictions (maximum square footage of floor space of building permitted)

Q11. Are you aware of any opportunities for MIXED-USE DEVELOPMENT in Kingston? (residences which are blended with commercial, cultural, institutional or industrial uses) NO

Q12. Please describe your mixed-use development opportunity

   not answered
Q13. Are there specific costs associated with developing housing for the student rental market?
YES

Q14. Please describe and include any suggestions you have to help manage these costs

Not sure how much the municipality can do. They can do somethings however -- The costs are related to the cost of the existing structures and land in the area of the demand. Change lot coverage and set-back provisions to allow larger buildings on smaller spaces. Eliminate parking requirements. Tenants can choose whether or not to rent a parking space and how many blocks from their residence it has to be.

Q15. There is a skilled trades shortage that contributes to increasing the cost of building housing. What actions could be taken to increase the availability of skilled trades to support increased housing development?

Decrease student minimum wage so that it is practical to hire high school students in the summer. My brother and I both got started in the industry that way; adjusted for inflation our wage was $8/hr. At $14/hr, it is uneconomic to offer a position to an untrained person who is only available for 9 weeks. $14/hr, with safety training, WSIB, EI, Vacation, Holiday, CPP, bookkeeping, etc - means a charge-out rate has to be about $28/hr -- and customers (homeowners doing renovations) balk at spending $28/hour for somebody who spends 25% of their time watching because they are too inexperienced to be able to do tasks constantly.

Q16. What would motivate you to add housing supply to the City?

Changes to the Landlord/Tenant act to give the landlord faster and more effective recourse against bad tenants who abuse the property or don’t pay rent promptly.

Q17. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies?
YES

Q18. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.

In the US -- tiny houses are being made legal.

Q19. Do you have any ideas for CREATIVE PARTNERSHIPS that could increase the supply of affordable housing? (Examples: faith-based organization with land to re-purpose, business with empty retail space, etc)
NO

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

Reduce property taxes on new apartment complexes which guaranteed 50% geared to income units for the first ten years of their occupancy with tax reduction linked to the same 50% geared to income for those ten years. As long as 50% geared to income ratio is maintained after ten years taxes reduced at a lesser rate then first ten years (from lets say 20% to 10%) in perpetuity.

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

Invest in infrastructure that will allow for the ease of sewer and power - ie make new buildings electrically self sufficient through the use of solar panels for each new building. Don't reimplement OMD so municipalities can control what happens in their communities - not a provincially appoints board or developers.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

Money for municipalities to offset loss of property taxes.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

Don't keep changing the rules. Come up with one set of rules that apply across the board and don't make exceptions for anyone. Builders will want to make money and will agree to them as long as they see no one is getting what appears to be preferential treatment

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

Nothing - safety on the work site and properly built housing is more important than rushing anything.

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston?

not answered

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:
   Allow multiple tiny homes on vacant property.

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:
   Create a zoning policy for multiple tiny homes on a single property. Create a zoning code for a Tiny Town.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:
   Create a CMHC mortgage policy that allows tiny homes to be financed in the same way that traditional housing is financed.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?
   Expand the housing options available. Tiny homes can be built and deployed faster, cheaper and operate more efficiently than any other form of housing. They are also the most eco-friendly form of housing, reducing the carbon footprint in areas where employed.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?
   Expand the allowed housing options to include tiny homes. They aren’t the solution for everyone, but they work very well for singles, couples and single parent families. Whether young first-time homeowners or empty-nest seniors, tiny homes can be an affordable option if made available.

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston? YES

Q10. Please describe these barriers:
   There is no president for multiple tiny homes on a single property, so the process is cumbersome and limited.

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:
   Simplify building permit process. Remove irrelevant Heritage Restrictions. (ex New construction on the Church of the Good Thief property).

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:
   Reduce land transfer tax

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:
   - Incentives for producing housing. Reduced regulatory red tape. Speed up time frames for all, reasonable review times must be enforced. Reduced paperwork requirements for submissions. Streamline review process at all levels of government.

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:
   - Clear policies, simple. Reinforce that the intended role is to permit reasonable development. Prohibit perspectives that all regulation is for the purpose of finding methods to inhibit forward movement.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:
   - Clear policies, simple. Reinforce that the intended role is to permit reasonable development. Prohibit perspectives that all regulation is for the purpose of finding methods to inhibit forward movement.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?
   - Required review time frames.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?
   - Other than ensuring that post approval processes are clear, red tape is streamlined and have required review deadlines, I assume that the problem of constructing is a development challenge.

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston? YES

Q10. Please describe these barriers:
   - Public/Political resistance to height and density. This is a specific challenge because without height and/or density development is not going to occur. Being opposed to height is inefficient, but also being opposed to density at the same time means a building will not get build and residential units will not get created. Heritage where applicable can be a hindrance to reasonable development. Aesthetic requirements do not concern me, height and/or scope restrictions because of heritage or adjacent to heritage is just short sighted. OMB/LPAT reform: in a community as small as Kingston, blocking a few hundred units at OMB/LPAT is a significant portion of our growth for years.
Q11. Are you aware of any opportunities for MIXED-USE DEVELOPMENT in Kingston? (residences which are blended with commercial, cultural, institutional or industrial uses) YES

Q12. Please describe your mixed-use development opportunity

Multiple. Not sure I understand why you are asking.

Q13. Are there specific costs associated with developing housing for the student rental market? YES

Q14. Please describe and include any suggestions you have to help manage these costs

High turn over, increased maintenance.

Q15. There is a skilled trades shortage that contributes to increasing the cost of building housing. What actions could be taken to increase the availability of skilled trades to support increased housing development?

From a governmental perspective: -destigmatizing trade work through education -trades training programs that encourage the public that there is gainful employment available

Q16. What would motivate you to add housing supply to the City?

Incentives, incentives for the types of products you want to see, remove red tape, encourage density and height.

Q17. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies? YES

Q18. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.

Other municipalities I have worked in have a 'lets develop' attitude in council and staff. Kingston is well known for being 'slow and mired in red tape'. Staff seem to be in the business of finding items that will block your application, and if you do not chase the application the timeliness of every step is constantly stalled. The opposite would be staff being the guiding force on how to get your application in line with policy and moving forward efficiently. Staff are gun-shy from Councillors comments/votes going sideways.

Q19. Do you have any ideas for CREATIVE PARTNERSHIPS that could increase the supply of affordable housing? (Examples: faith-based organization with land to re-purpose, business with empty retail space, etc) YES

Q20. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

Incentives for the product you wish to see brought to market and they will occur. Encourage height and density and you will see it.

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

   Require developer / builders to sell a certain percentage of the lots in each development to other residential builders and not allow them to only develop and sell within their own organization. Lift the freeze on the urban growth boundary but limit the percentage of green field land that can be owned by one company or group of companies. Reduce the amount of studies and complexity of the development process. Holding the current urban growth boundary artificially drives up the value of greenfield land. Infill development is a great idea but is also more costly and time consuming then greenfield development. In most cases the cost per acre of the land is too high, the land typically requires a minimum of a zone change and sometimes an official plan change, there are often environmental concerns, servicing concerns etc. On many potential infill developments the economics make the development impossible.

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

   Reduce the amount of studies and complexity of the development process.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

   Adjust the thresholds on the federal portion of the HST rebate to reflect today's cost of new homes.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

   Reduce the amount of studies and complexity of the development process. Have planning staff be accountable to review and comment time frames. Mandate turnaround times for reviews and the number of reviews allowed.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

   Reduce the amount of studies and complexity of the development process.

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston? YES

   All of the developable land greenfield within the current urban growth boundary is owned by 4 companies, 80% of it is owned by one company. The companies will not sell any lots they develop and keep them for their own use. Without any competition these companies can set their prices at whatever value they want. These companies are also driving up prices up by artificially reducing supply due to their own limited annual building capacity. As a small builder I am not able to buy serviced lots from these companies to help increase supply and competition.

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

I don't believe municipal governments have a large enough budget to tackle housing on their own however maintaining reasonable development charges and simple and fair parkland and section 37 policies is important. Kingston is already doing a great job on this front relative to other cities. An incremental tax rebate program to support the type of housing or development they need is also a good tool. It works because they are using income that may not otherwise exist for the City.

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

The best thing Ontario can do is invest in a streamlined OMB process that delivers answers (no or yes) for development faster. We need professional planners who understand quality development to give the development community answers faster. Approval delays in Ontario are currently increasing the cost of housing significantly and the impact Ontario could have by investing in speed at the OMB would be significant.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

Eliminate HST on the new supply of residential housing. Maintain and grow its robust CMHC direct lending lending and mortgage insurance programs.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

Improve the OMB

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

Not much, this is a private sector issue

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston? YES

Q10. Please describe these barriers:

The City of Kingston has been very good to deal with but some long OMB appeals and more importantly the OMB not dismissing vexatious appeals faster has been a large barrier for us

Q11. Are you aware of any opportunities for MIXED-USE DEVELOPMENT in Kingston? (residences which are blended with commercial, cultural, institutional or industrial uses) YES
Q12. Please describe your mixed-use development opportunity

We have multiple sites under development

Q13. Are there specific costs associated with developing housing for the student rental market? NO

Q14. Please describe and include any suggestions you have to help manage these costs

not answered

Q15. There is a skilled trades shortage that contributes to increasing the cost of building housing. What actions could be taken to increase the availability of skilled trades to support increased housing development?

Skilled trade programs are an important career path that should be encouraged through education systems. Too many young people spend 10-15 years to find their way to a skilled trade career when they could have been trained much earlier.

Q16. What would motivate you to add housing supply to the City?

Much lower (or zero) parking requirements for downtown developments and/or a cash in lieu of parking policy.

Q17. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies? YES

Q18. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.

1) Zero Parking requirements in the downtown core. (multiple cities) 2) Lower development charges in areas that the City wants development. 3) Clear zoning for the desired height and density Hamilton has done a good job.....

Q19. Do you have any ideas for CREATIVE PARTNERSHIPS that could increase the supply of affordable housing? (Examples: faith-based organization with land to re-purpose, business with empty retail space, etc) NO

Q20. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

Q21. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in existing neighbourhoods through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings? Not sure, I need to learn more about this approach before I could answer either way.

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

Most of the issues that exacerbate housing costs are driven by Municipal Governments. Kingston charges thousands to permit new housing. Costs range from various types of planning fees to Building Permits. All those costs have risen dramatically over the past 20 years. Then there are the needless studies demanded that basically change nothing but add significant delays and costs to new housing. Sadly, the ever demanding appetite from the government for new and larger revenues has resulted in Development Charge becoming a source of revenue. Some costs tacked on to new housing is nothing but a sham. Library books, Uniforms, etc, etc, etc. Thirty years ago the cost of a building permit was around $500.00. Today somewhere between 20,000.00 to 22,000.00 and of course HST is applied to those permit taxes. The second and probably the bigger issue is the City freezing the Urban Boundary. That has restricted supply and variety of housing options. That drives up housing prices and reduces affordability which creates an artificial demand for rental housing. Many renters prefer homeownership. Municipal policies make that choice not achievable and they are forced into rental housing.

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

None

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

Not political possible, but if HST was dramatically lowered and applied to all housing, not just new housing.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

Reduce demand for studies. Most are a waste of time and expense. I would suggest a serious review of what studies are really required. Really required.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

Not a real issue.

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston? YES

Q10. Please describe these barriers:

The freezing of the Urban Boundary. Allow Developers to front end lands outside the Boundary to increase supply and create a healthy balanced housing supply. The future supply of the current infill lands and approved secondary plans for new single-family homes is substantially below the real demand.
Q11. Are you aware of any opportunities for MIXED-USE DEVELOPMENT in Kingston? (residences which are blended with commercial, cultural, institutional or industrial uses)
YES

Q12. Please describe your mixed-use development opportunity
Princess and Gardiners Road

Q13. Are there specific costs associated with developing housing for the student rental market?
NO

Q14. Please describe and include any suggestions you have to help manage these costs
not answered

Q15. There is a skilled trades shortage that contributes to increasing the cost of building housing. What actions could be taken to increase the availability of skilled trades to support increased housing development?
Fact check. I started working on a building site in 1974. Laborers made $12.00 an hour. Wages for site personnel has not kept pace with inflation. There is a shortage of trade companies in more physical fields. Masons, Drywallers. KHBA needs to get active with Pathway and some of the Secondary Schools to help train future skilled trades and train them to be Owners. I will speak to the KHBA to get them moving on this important issue. The driver on increased housing costs is not manpower. Its taxes and the lack of building lot availability.

Q16. What would motivate you to add housing supply to the City?
Expand the Urban Boundary.

Q17. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies?
YES

Q18. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.
They let Developers front end to bring in new lands. Not everyone wants to live in a townhouse or apartment.

Q19. Do you have any ideas for CREATIVE PARTNERSHIPS that could increase the supply of affordable housing? (Examples: faith-based organization with land to re-purpose, business with empty retail space, etc)
YES

Q20. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.
Fact. Most one-off projects involving City private dealing results in corrupt results. Government employees are for the most part not equipped to deal with a sophisticated smiling entrepreneur on a large visible public project. Best for Government to set good policy and allow free enterprise to battle it out and compete to win for the consumer. That drives ingenuity and reduces costs.
Q21. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in existing neighbourhoods through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Q4. What policy changes could each of the three levels of government offer to lower costs of building residential properties? MUNICIPAL policy changes to lower costs:

Build more single family homes not in a complex style for families that are 3 bedrooms. So families are not segregated to certain area's.

Q5. PROVINCIAL policy changes to lower costs:

Decrease the rent to reflect what a person gets on ODSP. So they can actually afford adequate housing single mother with 2 kids gets $838 max on disability however you can't even rent a 3 bedroom apartment for that.

Q6. FEDERAL policy changes to lower costs:

Lower rental cost. Give the same benefits to the people that are on Ontario works which is supposed to be temporary to disability so they can properly care for their families.

Q7. What do you think can be done to SPEED UP THE PROCESS of approving projects for housing?

Get kchc volunteers on board to build a house for members of the community.

Q8. What do you think can be done to REDUCE THE TIME between planning approvals and occupancy?

Have members agency members submit families.

Q9. Have you encountered barriers that have restricted your ability to build residential properties in Kingston? YES

Q10. Please describe these barriers:

I'm on ODSP because I'm epileptic and I get only a $838 a month when I have a 14 year old son and a 2 year old daughter. I presently am in college studying to be a community development and social worker after already receiving my medical office administration diploma. I was going to add a medical technician as a lot of people graduated with MOA, but complication sensitive from lens replacement surgery my eyes made it so I couldn't continue in that program. I currently pay $1055 plus for rent but only get $838 in shelter cost for my family in total. I am under housed because you can't find anything under $1500 plus for a 3 bedroom house. And my son can't live in a apt with his medical conditions.

Q11. Are you aware of any opportunities for MIXED-USE DEVELOPMENT in Kingston? NO (residences which are blended with commercial, cultural, institutional or industrial uses)
Q12. Please describe your mixed-use development opportunity

not answered

Q13. Are there specific costs associated with developing housing for the student rental market?

YES

Q14. Please describe and include any suggestions you have to help manage these costs

Yes but if your a family you dont qualify because they are all rented by rooms. So u can be a student just not a family.

Q15. There is a skilled trades shortage that contributes to increasing the cost of building housing. What actions could be taken to increase the availability of skilled trades to support increased housing development?

Put the money into local contractors oppose to out of town contractors and maybe there wouldnt be a shortage.

Q16. What would motivate you to add housing supply to the City?

If the city didnt spend the money on nonsense crossing that are not a priority and put money towards things that are more of a priority. And didnt waste money on changing the looks of police cars instead the money went to hiring more and making sure more equipment was there for them.

Q17. Are you aware of any POLICIES / STRATEGIES working in other cities that are increasing housing supplies?

YES

Q18. Please DESCRIBE the policy / strategy and, if possible, include the city and a link/resource to explore.

I believe there is in other city's where the city rent to own property to tenants. For first time home owner's a chance to own a home. Without having to have a down payment.

Q19. Do you have any ideas for CREATIVE PARTNERSHIPS that could increase the supply of affordable housing? (Examples: faith-based organization with land to re-purpose, business with empty retail space, etc)

YES

Q20. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.

United way Kchc Micheal Teagles Rosen's springer's

Q21. How do you feel about community planning approaches that would increase density in existing neighbourhoods through the introduction of secondary suites, coach houses, duplexes, triplexes, small lots single-detached homes semi-detached homes, townhomes, and small multi-unit apartment buildings?

Not sure, I need to learn more about this approach before I could answer either way.

Yes.

Q20. Please describe your ideas for creative partnerships and please include relevant points of contact.
I believe to make density intense projects successfully i.e., long-term places people want to live and are communities there must be partnerships to create feelings of community. One of my he things this city has failed at is looking at long-term effects of planning e.g., why is elevator bay being developed with water levels increased this is criminal.

vetting- i have shared my idea about having people put in temporary housing for a year while being vetted for permanent housing.

This would ensure that people would be able and responsible enough to take care of an apartment. During the vetting process all involved would be able to access any help that they may need: medical, drug related, psychological, or even getting a GED. This process is not to segregate people but to bring communities together and bring all into an even playing field so that we all can be a resourceful working community. While in Temporary Housing volunteer opportunities will be available and education. Access to resources that otherwise would not be taken advantage of if people were not taken off the streets and helped, in a non-condescending way.

Offer tax incentives

Some kind of tier of tax benefits for builders/developers that increases with the need for the type of housing they are building. Eg. Give the best rebates/credits/whatever for building affordable housing or high density housing (apartments)

We need to vet persons before allowing them to have permanent housing. This allow housing to vet persons to make sure that such persons capable of living in a permanent housing situation. If they are put in temporary housing, and after 6 months to 1 yr without any problems proving that they can be responsible tenants costs will go down, policing will be reduced and so will damages caused. VETTING and TEMP HOUSING IS THE WAY !!!
